Introduction to the continuation of the series

In the spring of 1947 I had the opportunity of making a collecting trip to the Canary Islands. Insects and animals of various other groups were collected for the Rijksmuseum van Natuurlijke Historie at Leiden. As the working up of these materials promises interesting results, there is a good reason for continuing the series of papers started some twenty years ago by the late Dr. D. L. Uyttenboogaart. Before doing so it seems useful to make some bibliographical remarks on the numbers hitherto published.

The first paper which appeared under the title "Contributions to the knowledge of the Fauna of the Canary-Islands" is no. III of the series. From a footnote on the titlepage of no. XVI it appears which papers Dr. Uyttenboogaart considered to be the numbers I and II of the series. No. II bears the title "Contributions to the knowledge of the Coleoptera-Fauna of the Canaries". As far as I could ascertain no. XXV is the last number of the series hitherto published. I failed to trace the numbers XXII and XXIII; perhaps Dr. Uyttenboogaart considered as such two of his other publications on Canarian Coleoptera, not bearing the general title nor a number.

The following is a full bibliography of the series:

- (I.) Hans Eggers: Zwei neue Borkenkäfer (Ipidae) von den Canarischen Inseln. T. v. E., 70: 37—40; D. L. Uyttenboogaart: Some remarks regarding the Discovery and the Biology of Dactylotrypes Uyttenboogaarti Eggers. T. v. E., 70: 40—42 (1927).
